

The Audit Bureau of Circulations, Chicago, measures the paid distribution of practically all newspapers and magazines in the United States and Canada. Thus a standard for advertising costs is set up — being the cost per inch of advertising per thousand of circulation (or as they say in the national advertising field, "the milline") — the cost per line per million papers.

The ABC had its annual meeting in Chicago last month, and the published report of retiring President P. L. Thomson presents a graphic picture of America as a tremendous reader of news, fiction, and advertising.

Mr. Thomson, speaking of the United States alone, for the period 1940-1949, pointed out that our population grew from 132 millions to 148 — a gain of 12 per cent. In the same period ABC newspaper circulation gained 28 per cent — rising from 38.5 millions to 49.5.

Magazine circulations went up from 94.8 to 142.5 millions — an increase of 50 per cent.

Farm publications rose from 15.2 to 18.6 millions — a 22 per cent gain.

Business papers increased 62 per cent — from 2.7 to 4.5 millions.

The total of all ABC circulations — newspapers, magazines, farm and business papers — rose from 151.2 to 215.1 millions, a gain of 42 per cent, as compared to the 12 per cent increase in population.

You are looking at a picture of one of the most literate nations on earth. Which conclusion brings us to one more fact, also mentioned in the ABC president's report:

While population was gaining 12 per cent and circulations 42 per cent total published advertising rose 146 per cent.

So literacy and the constant effort of the publishing companies to expand circulations do have a far-reaching effect on trade and commerce. Without advertising there could be no mass production of goods — the one great gift America discovered and handed to the world, and which is responsible for our having the highest standard of living among nations.

Two Convicted in Atom Spy Investigation

New York, Nov. 23 — (AP) — A chemical engineer and his woman business associate were convicted last night of conspiring to hinder a federal investigation of the engineer's relations with confessed atom spy Harry Gold.

They are Abraham Brothman, 38, and Miriam Moskowitz, 34.

A federal court jury of seven men and five women brought in the guilty verdicts after almost four hours' deliberation.

Maximum penalties at the sentencing set for Nov. 28 could be seven years in prison and a $10,000 fine for Miss Moskowitz.

Gold, formerly employed by Brothman, was the government's star witness against the pair.

Brothman and Miss Moskowitz were convicted of obstructing justice in a grand jury probe. They were accused specifically of conspiring together with Gold to defraud the government of its function of enforcing the federal criminal laws.

An additional count against Brothman alleged that he "urged, advised and persuaded" Gold to give false testimony on July 31, 1947 before a federal grand jury investigating espionage and subversive activities.

Gold, 39-year-old Philadelphia biochemist, is awaiting sentence on a plea of guilty to espionage. He has confessed to acting as a go-between for Dr. Klaus Fuchs, a top British scientist who once worked on atomic research in the United States, now is serving a prison term in England.

Gold testified that Brothman furnished him with important technical secrets for Russian spies.

Later, Gold said, Brothman induced him to lie about their relations. This was at a time when the government was investigating the case. The charge against Miss Moskowitz was that she helped cook up a false story that Gold told to the authorities.

Peace Rumors Crop Out as Chinese Retreat

By RELMAN ORIN

Tokyo, Nov. 23 — (AP) — Peace rumors appeared suddenly today amid a Thanksgiving day quiet on the Korean battlefronts.

Talk of a negotiated settlement was touched off by:

1. Chinese Communists suddenly released 27 wounded American prisoners. The freed men brought this message — "the Chinese do not want to fight the Americans."

2. Chinese Red, with an estimated 100,000 men in northwest Korea, continued to withdraw without a fight.

3. U. N. troops did not move up to take over abandoned Red fortifications.

"There is a reason" why U. N. troops have not advanced, a spokesman at General MacArthur's headquarters said. He would not say what that reason was.

Col. M. P. Echols, headquarters information officer, denied reports that any peace negotiations were in progress "at this level."

In Washington, U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson told his Wednesday news conference that creation of a demilitarized buffer zone between North Korea and Red China's Manchuria has been discussed.

But he said no agreement has been reached. He added that discussions were with friendly foreign governments.

Immediately after the unexpected release of the 27 prisoners, a trustworthy source in Tokyo denied that any peace negotiations were going anywhere. Later, Echols amended that to deny negotiations at "this level."

Speculation arose that the peace question might be taken up at Lake Success by a Chinese Communist delegation enroute to the U. N.

Colonel Echols also denied reports that efforts were being made to work out a mass surrender or withdrawal of Chinese forces, whose sudden appearance in Korea in late October prolonged the war.

Nevertheless the Chinese were withdrawing everywhere, Chinese Nationalists in Taipei said. The Chinese Reds had been ordered to fall back because of heavy casualties, intensive bombings and superior U. N. fighting power.

At the Hague, Ambassador Sel den Chapin read President Truman's Thanksgiving proclamation in the English church. Present were 1,200 employees of the embassy and such American agencies as the economic cooperation administration. Chapin later gave a turkey and apple pie luncheon.

U. S. High Commissioner John J. McCloy issued a Thanksgiving day message to Americans in Germany.

"In giving thanks to the Almighty, we should affirm our will to see peace come to the world and our determination to do everything within our power to bring about a state of peace," he said.

Back of the iron curtain, in Communist Prague, U. S. charge d'affaires Tyler Thompson and his wife entertained 25 Americans at dinner.

Second Cold Wave Is Scheduled

Chicago, Nov. 23 — (AP) — The second cold wave of the week was whistling out across the midwest today.

Strong northerly winds had brought snow flurries into the northern plains states in advance of zero or near zero temperatures expected tonight. Temperatures already were below zero in parts of Montana, the Dakotas and Minnesota. Havre and Cutbank, Mont., had a frigid 20 below.

The cold wave was expected to spread as far south as northern Texas and over all the upper Mississippi Valley today.

The New England states had fair but continued rather cold weather today, all that remained of the storm which moved eastward out of the midwest earlier this week.

The southeastern states also reported temperatures somewhat below normal but described only as chilly.

Thanksgiving Over Nation But Not in Arkansas

By The Associated Press

The turkey took his annual curtain all today in spite of war, taxes and death.

Throughout this land and around the world, even in cold, battle-worn Korea, Americans prepared to offer thanks for the good things they have before grabbing off another slice of the white meat.

President Truman asked his countrymen to pray for peace wherever they are, in church or at home or in the "busy walks of life, every day, everywhere."

Many of them, had crowded last night onto trains, buses and planes to get back to their own hearths for the prayers and turkey feasting. And many more today jammed the highways heading to football fields and golf courses.

The weatherman studied his charts and said it would be cold in a lot of places and generally fair. A cold wave was moving in from the mountain and plains states. Another still lingered along the Atlantic seaboard.

Cold or not, American tables were sure to be loaded with the good things of the soil, candied yams and crisp, white celery and plump olives and chilled apple cider. But the smooth, gold-brown, roasted turkey, a bit cheaper than last year, was the feature attraction.

President Truman planned to share a 35-pound Pennsylvania-grown bird with Mrs. Truman, daughter Margaret and mother-in-law Mrs. David Wallace.

In case you've forgotten, the very first Thanksgiving we ever had was back in 1621. The pilgrims had brought in their first new-world harvest.

There wasn't a national observance of the day until President Lincoln set aside the last Thursday of November, 1863, as a day for giving thanks.

Other presidents did likewise and Thanksgiving day became as much a part of the American scene as Christmas or election day.

A minor row resulted 10 years back when President Franklin D. Roosevelt decided the fourth, rather than the last, Thursday should get the nod as the nation's Thanksgiving day. Congress agreed and passed a joint resolution changing the date. But some states still stick to the old way.

One of these is Texas and Governor Shivers doesn't mind having Thanksgiving on Page Three.

Mass Slayer Sane When He Killed Five

Woodbury, N. J., Nov. 23 (UP) — Mass slayer Ernest Ingenito was "perfectly sane" when he killed five of his wife's relatives and wounded her and three others in an attempt to "wipe out" her entire family, a psychiatrist's report showed today.

The report was prepared by Dr. Robert S. Garber, of the state hospital at Trenton, and Dr. J. B. Spradley, said Ingenito "is perfectly sane at all times."

New York Train Wreck Kills 76 Persons, 27 Die in Highway Mishap

By The Associated Press

At least 103 persons were killed in Thanksgiving holiday accidents 27 in highway mishaps and 76 in a train wreck near New York City.

Two crowded Long Island railroad passenger trains crashed Wednesday night during the Thanksgiving eve rush hour, killing 76 persons and injuring more than 150. It was the nation's worst train wreck since 1943.

The toll of fatalities appeared certain to mount high this year because of the Long Island railroad crash.

The worst traffic accident reported through that time was in Pennsylvania. One accident near Harrisburg, involving two cars and a trailer truck, killed four persons.

Last Thanksgiving accidental deaths totaled 181, a record for the holiday. Of this number, 13 resulted from traffic crashes and 58 from miscellaneous sources, including 14 killed in tornadoes.

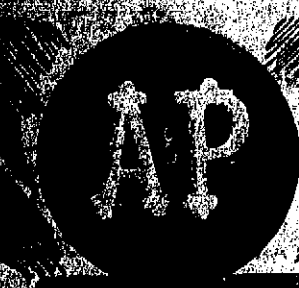

The previous high or Thanksgiving was in 1947, when 123 were killed, 107 in traffic accidents.

Russia Pays, Controls U. S. Communists

By MAX HALL.
(For James Marlow.)
Washington, Nov. 23 —(AP)—Americans are not exactly surprised to hear that the American Communists regard the Soviet Union as their fatherland.

But many citizens will find it somehow satisfying, on this Thanksgiving day, to know that the United States government has at last found an opportunity to describe the Communist party in precise and formal language as a group that is controlled, disciplined, and from time to time financed by Russia.

Attorney General McGrath did this last night as he started proceedings to force the party to register under the internal security act of 1950.

Here is a brief account covering 31 years of the Communist party of the United States, as condensed from the nearly 5,000 words of McGrath's statement:

The party was founded in or about 1919. It became a member of the Communist International (Comintern). The Comintern has maintained representatives in the U. S. to direct and supervise the party.

Since 1919 the party has never knowingly deviated from the policies of the Russian government. Whenever those policies conflicted with the U. S. position, the party has opposed the U. S. position.

In or about 1929, there was a factional dispute within the American Communist party. Stalin settled it in favor of the minority faction. The leaders of the majority faction were expelled. The party opposed the League Nations even Russia did, and reversed its position when Russia did. It supported and justified the Soviet "purge" of 1937.

Starting about 1935 it softened its attacks on democratic countries and advocated a united front against fascism and nazism, in accordance with Comintern policy.

But in 1939 it overlooked its opposition to fascism and nazism, and supported the Hitler-Stalin pact. It supported Russia's invasion of Finland in 1939, the Russian expansion into Poland in 1939, and the absorption of Latvia, Estonia, and Lithuania in 1940.

The party voted in 1940 to disaffiliate from the Comintern in order to avoid registering under the Voorhis act, but continued under Comintern direction.

Before Hitler attacked Russia on June 22, 1941, the party affirmatively sought to prevent American aid to countries fighting Hitler. On that date it reversed its position, abandoned its disruptive tactics, and demanded full aid to those countries.

The party dissolved itself in 1944 and became the "Communist political association." But it reconstituted itself in 1945, on instructions from leaders in the world Communist movement.

Since the war, the party has supported Russian and Communist activities in the Balkans, Czechoslovakia, Poland, China, Italy, Germany and other countries. It has supported all Russian positions in the United States. It has opposed the Truman doctrine, Marshall plan, and North Atlantic pact.

When the Communist Information Bureau (Cominform) was formed in 1947 as a successor to the Comintern, the party found it inexpedient to become a formal member because of certain U. S. laws, but it has affiliated with the Cominform and followed its policies. It reports to Russia and the Cominform, and its members are expelled or otherwise censured when they disobey orders.

The party has received financial aid, and still receives it, from Russia and the Cominform. For example, it has received funds for infiltrating the American trade union movement. The party has used many clandestine practices, and since 1945 was adhered strictly to a policy of secrecy — involving party names, code words, false swearing, and the withholding of records.

McGrath, in his conclusion, said that in the event of a war between the U. S. and Russia, the American Communists obligated themselves to act to defeat the military efforts of the U. S. and to aid Russia. The party teaches its members that in such event they must act to avert a civil war in the U. S. and establish a Soviet America.

Veep Barkley in Hospital on Thanksgiving

Washington, Nov. 23 — (UP) — It was a hospital Thanksgiving for Vice President Alben W. Barkley today but not a lonely one.

Mrs. Barkley was there to have dinner with him, turkey and all—literally—the trimmings at Bethesda Naval Hospital. The "veep" is in for a routine physical check-up.

And tomorrow, Mrs. Barkley said, the vice president will come home briefly to celebrate his 73rd birthday. It will be a quiet one, she said. Then he will return to the hospitals.

McGrath Out After U. S. Communists

Washington, Nov. 23 — (AP)—The government has fired the opening gun in what may well be a history-making battle with the Communist party in the United States.

Attorney General J. Howard McGrath formally charged last night that American Reds are ruled by Soviet Russia and owe first allegiance to "the Red flag."

He called on the new subversive activities control board to force the party to register with him the names of its leaders and members, and give an accounting of its sources of revenue.

His petition, running to nearly 5,000 words, constituted the most sweeping condemnation of U. S. Communist activity ever put out by any official of this government.

"In the event of a war between the Soviet Union and the United States," McGrath said, "the Communists in the United States have obligated themselves to act to defeat the military efforts of the United States and to aid and support the Soviet Union."

Should such a war materialize, he added, the Communist party plans calls for civil insurrection in the United States for the purpose of establishing "a Soviet America having a dictatorship of the proletariat such as exists in the Soviet Union."

McGrath's petition gave the subversive activities control board its first business. Created by the internal security act, passed by congress last September, the five-member bi-partisan panel was appointed by President Truman a month ago.

McGrath's petition put the next move squarely up to the Communist party. It must now appear before the board to explain its reason for not registering voluntarily. The board has subpoena power to back this up.

After hearings, the board must decide whether to order registration. Failure to comply with the order calls for fines and imprisonment. The Communist party has said it will fight registration through the courts on the ground that it is a violation of the civil liberties clause of the constitution.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Zack Stone and the group repeated the club creed and sang the song of the month. Mrs. Floyd gave the devotional, James 3:1-11. Each member present answered the roll call by naming a handicraft article that can be made for Christmas.

The following officers were elected at the meeting: president, Mrs. Zack Stone; vice-president, Mrs. Carl Brown; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Floyd; and reporter, Miss Hazel Cummings. The group also voted to donate one dollar toward the food booth next year. The program committee for the Christmas party was elected with Mrs. Harvey Montgomery, Mrs. Edith Mae Carmon, and Mrs. Carl Brown as members. Each member was asked to bring a home made gift and a gift for their secret pal with their name inside.

The surprise package won by Mrs. Agnes Ward brought $2.10. An apron was shown by Mrs. J. E. Ward and Mrs. Woodson.

Refreshments were served to twenty-three members and one visitor.

The next meeting will be at the church on December 15 at 1 p.m. for the Christmas party. Hostesses will be Mrs. Zack Stone and Mrs. Sally Woodson.

Pep Talk Causes Council to Hike One Allotment

Little Rock, Nov. 23 — (AP)—The Arkansas Legislative council, which has been cutting down on must budget requests, heard a good sales talk yesterday.

As a result, it upped the budget of the state's basic science board to $4,000 a year from the current allotment of $1,200.

An appropriation of $2,400 was recommended as salary for Dr. Louis E. Gebauer, Little Rock bacteriologist, who serves as board secretary.

Dr. Gebauer, who's been secretary since the board was established in 1929, said he'd have to quit unless there was an increased appropriation.

"I just can't go on spending my own money to run this office," he told the council.

Dr. Gebauer said the most he'd

Youth Sentenced for Series of Burglaries

Jonesboro, Nov. 23 — (AP)—A youth who said he'd committed more than 100 burglaries and robberies during the past two years and a recaptured fugitive from the Arkansas penitentiary were sentenced here yesterday.

Harry Lee Flamm, 18, the "wholesale burglar," received sentences totaling 37 years, but Circuit Judge Zal Harrison suspended all but seven years.

Leroy Cook, 28, was sentenced to three years for burglary and received an additional 21 year suspended sentence for grand larceny.

Cook escaped last Aug. 17 from a Dumas hospital, where he'd been transferred from the state prison farm because he apparently had become paralyzed in the right leg.

He was arrested in Michigan Sept. 13 driving an automobile of officers said he'd gotten by breaking into a Jonesboro sales agency.

Yesterday's sentences were in connection with the burglary and car theft.

While in jail here last March Cook and five other men beat a jailer and tried unsuccessfully to escape. In April he was sentenced to two years for burglary and to four years for the jail break attempt.

He still may be tried for his escape from the Dumas hospital.

Thomas Would Also Give Surplus

Washington, Nov. 22 (AP)—Senator Thomas said today he hopes the Senate action during the week session beginning next Monday on a bill aimed at making surplus food available to the needy will be a success.

In the primary, favors giving part of the surplus to drought-stricken Yugoslavia.

The pending legislation, he said, would give Secretary of Agriculture Bannan authority to pay for processing food bought under surplus price support program and transporting it to government price support project agencies this year after Congress authorized free disposal of surplus dried eggs, milk and other foods for relief purposes.

Both Thomas and Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.) have proposed using some of the surplus for relief in Yugoslavia. Marshal Tito against Moscov pressure. Tito's Communist regime has broken with the Russian bloc and turned to the West for economic support. Because of the drought, its people are reported threatened with starvation.

"In order to use the dried eggs they must be packaged with instructions on how to use them for scrambled eggs, egg cake or similar food uses," Thomas said. "The same is true of the dried milk. We must tell people whether to use hot or cold water and in what amounts."

"But people who need them also lack the money to transport and process the foods. We are spending about $15,000,000 a year just to warehouse them and they are spoiling."

"Thomas said the government's 'normal granary' stocks of farm commodities is now below the $2,000,000,000 level.

Rising prices, a short cotton crop and heavy demands for farm pro-

Rent Control Battle Is Drawing Near

By MAX HALL

(For James Marlow) Washington, Nov. 22 (AP)—The cold war over rent controls is about to break out into another shooting spree in Congress. Everybody duck.

This happens once or twice each year. But it's a bit different this time. The battlefront will be somewhat hard to trace on the map. Rent controls have been largely in the hands of local communities for some time now, and there is no uniformity in the land.

American cities and towns fullducts have removed some $2,000,000 worth of farm crops that had piled up under the price support program.

Thomas said about $100,000,000 worth of dried eggs, a similar amount of butter, $35,000,000 worth of dried milk and $15,000,000 worth of cheese also may be disposed of if Congress acts on the pending legislation.

He said "nobody is worrying about other government stockpiles containing $650,000,000 worth of wheat and $500,000,000 of corn adding."

"We may find out they will come in mighty handy in case of short crops or new defense needs."

into several groups.

1. Some have never been under rent controls.

2. Some have de-controlled themselves. They decided they no longer needed rent ceilings. So they took advantage of a federal law passed in 1949, and got rid of them. This group includes Miami, San Diego, Oklahoma City and about 400 other communities.

3. Some have been de-controlled on the initiative of the federal government, on the ground that the housing shortage had ended there. More than 500 communities are in this group.

4. Some have been de-controlled by their state legislatures. Examples: All places in Virginia, Alabama, Texas, and Nebraska. New York state went out from under federal controls a year ago but is governed by a state rent control law instead.

5. Some communities have decided to continue rent controls until the middle of next year. A law approved last June permits them to do this, either by action of their governing bodies or by a vote of the people. This group includes Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, St. Louis and about 700 other places.

6. More than 2,000 communities under federal rent controls have done nothing. And therefore, under the law of last June, their rent controls will automatically end on Dec. 31, unless they take action to extend them—or unless Congress does. This large group embracing perhaps 40,000,000 people, includes Cleveland, Cincinnati, Baltimore, San Francisco, Kansas City, Seattle, Atlanta, and New Orleans.

When the old 81st Congress meets next Monday for its brief final session, it must decide what to do about the last group described above.

President Truman wants the cut-off date extended three months beyond Dec. 31. That is, until March 31. This would give the new 82nd Congress three months to argue the whole thing out after it meets in January.

The old Congress may vote the extension. It may not. The National Association of Real Estate Boards opposes the extension, on the ground that Congress has already given the local communities a chance to extend their controls to mid-1951 if they want to.

The Truman administration also wants Congress, sooner or later, to give Housing Expediter Tighe E. Woods the power to restore rent ceilings in areas that have de-controlled themselves but which now have new housing shortages because of the defense program. Some of those areas, according to Woods, have become trouble spots—for example, the area around Camp Atterbury in Indiana.

The hottest spot in the country just now, with respect to rent controls, is Los Angeles.

The Los Angeles city council voted to de-control the city. Opponents of this action took it to court and lost. But the actual de-controlling does not take place until Expediter Woods signs the order, and this Woods refused to do.

He says no evidence was presented to the city council that the housing shortage has ended, and therefore the council's action was improper under the law.

A U. S. district judge ordered him to sign. He appealed to the U. S. Court of Appeals here. This court gave him until day after tomorrow to sign, but also granted him a hearing today.

Watermelons are 92% water.

Farm Bureau Names State Winners

Little Rock, Nov. 22 (AP)—Four Arkansas couples have been designated master farm families for 1950 in connection with the convention of the Arkansas Farm Bureau federation here.

They are Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Cox of Texarkana, Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Davis of Lawrence county, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Oats of Morrilton and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ohlendorf of Osceola.

The awards, announced last night, are made at each Arkansas Farm Bureau federation convention. They climax a contest conducted annually by the Progressive Farmer magazine in co-operation with the agricultural extension service.

Ed Lipscomb, Memphis, public relations director of the national cotton council, told the convention last night that American Farmers constitute the only group capable of reversing a trend toward socialism.

Some 1,500 bureau members, representing every county in the state, are attending the convention.

Speakers today were to include Rep. Albert Gore of Tennessee.

Carl Schaffrin, 217 Perry St., St. Charles, Mo., says there are some folks in this old world who feel good and there are other folks who feel bad. The folks who feel good he wants to congratulate, but for the folks who feel mightily bad he says he wants them to read what he has to say and then take a word of advice — take HADACOL if you suffer from a deficiency of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron.

Here is what Mr. Schaffrin has to say about HADACOL since it overcame the effects of such deficiencies in his system: "I have been a shoe cutter for over 32 years — I now work for the Boyd Welsh Shoe Co. in St. Louis. For quite some time now I haven't had any appetite at all — seemed like I didn't have enough energy to do my work. I was tired all the time — and really didn't enjoy doing anything. It affected my work too. Then I heard how other folks who took HADACOL had increased their appetite and seemed to have a limitless amount of energy. I tried HADACOL and it is amazing what a change it has made. Now I feel like eating everything on the table, my disposition is 100% better and my work — in fact, everything I do I now enjoy. For an entirely new outlook on life I recommend HADACOL."

Why HADACOL Gives Such Fine Results

HADACOL does not bring symptomatic relief. HADACOL now makes it possible to actually relieve the cause of nagging pains, lack of energy, lack of appetite, and a general run-down weakened condition when these are due to such deficiencies of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron in your system.

HADACOL not only supplies deficient systems with extra quantities of Vitamins B1, B2, Iron, and Niacin but also helps the amounts of important Calcium and Phosphorus — elements so vital to help maintain good health and physical fitness.

Why These Vitamins and Minerals Come in Liquid Form

There's a very good reason why HADACOL come in special liquid form. These precious Vitamins and Minerals are easily and quickly absorbed into the blood stream this way — ready to go right to work. A big improvement is often noticed within a few days.

Now don't keep on wondering if HADACOL will help you. If you have such deficiencies — HADACOL WILL HELP YOU — just as it has thousands of grateful souls who were so troubled. GIVE IT A FAIR TRIAL! Remember HADACOL is sold on a strict money-back guarantee. And so inexpensive. Trial-size bottle, only $1.25. Large family or hospital size, $3.50.

Navy Rocket Travels 107 Miles Up

Washington, Nov. 22 (AP) — A navy Viking rocket reached a speed of 3,600 miles an hour yesterday in climbing 107 miles into the upper atmosphere over New Mexico.

The Viking, 50 feet long and weighing 5 1/2 tons, beat by one mile the previous altitude record for an American-made single stage missile.

However, a German V-2, fired at

Puerto Rican Radicals Are Jailed

New York, Nov. 23 (AP) — Two Puerto Rican radical leaders, suspected of being chief plotters in the attempt to assassinate President Truman, were held in separate New York jails today under heavy guard.

The two men were seized here late yesterday by secret service agents.

They are Julio Pinto Gandia, 42, veteran terrorist and president of the New York unit of the Puerto Rican Nationalist party, and Juan Bernardo Lebron, 28, past president of the New York unit.

More arrests were believed in the offing.

The wives of two men who attempted to kill the President in Washington — Oscar Collazo and Griselio Torresola — were arrested here shortly after the Nov. 1 gun battle outside Blair House.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Frederick H. Block said yesterday that a federal grand jury has evidence of "the possible existence of an organized plot" to kill the President.

With the gunmen "having been guided in their mission by Gandia and Lebron and the gunmen's wives."

Torresola was killed by a Blair House guard. Collazo, wounded by the guards, is awaiting trial in Washington. A guard died in the gun duel.

The two would-be assassins, both New York city residents, were active in the Puerto Rican Nationalist party — a radical group which demands complete independence of the island from the United States. They party recently staged an armed uprising.

The charge against Gandia and Lebron is that they conspired with the two wives — Mrs. Rosa Collazo, 42, and Mrs. Carmen Torresola, 22 — against the safety of the President.

U. S. Commissioner Edward W. McDonald held Gandia and Lebron in $50,000 bail each for a hearing Dec. 6.

The two men were arrested after the government asked more time to prepare its case against Mrs. Collazo and Mrs. Torresola. A two-week delay of a conspiracy hearing for the two women was granted by Commissioner McDonald.

The case of the two women, whose bail of $50,000 each was continued,

Fair Enough

New York, Nov. 23 — There is no more eager sucker in the United States than the author of these sentimental reflections and I find myself wishing that my government, under the general welfare clause, would set up an apparatus through which I could handily make a bet on a horse-race of the near-future. I play roulette and slot-machines at every opportunity and I like to play poker, too, but seldom get a chance because poker is a dying sport, corrupted into an awful mockery by the variations known as seven-toed Pete, up and down the river, baseball and spit in the ocean. The truest remark on the decline of my country was tossed out by Al Landon at the preliminary drinking just before we went in to the Maryland Land Turtle at one of the regattas of the Gridiron Club a couple of years ago. He said the U.S.A. began to go hell when the people lost their respect for two pigs.

All is a fundamentalist and a man of strict integrity and it is a point of pride with me that I out-manned him and took down a $15 pot on Roy Howard's yacht in the river at Philadelphia one night, when the Democrats were trojan horsing the Republican party with their man, Wendell Willkie. It is, on the contrary, a matter of shame and regret with me that I cannot say I cried him up in 1936 or voted for him because if Alf had won we would have gone back to steady work and would have kept out of the Second World War and, of course, the present Frank D. Roosevelt memorial war.

Well, what's done is done. I am a hunch-player. Everybody plays 17-in. roulette, but I play 14 and 23, although, of course, I scatter them around, especially when I am playing with their money. Quite a long time ago in Chicago a couple of L cars jumped the track and touched off a lot of blue-flame and brought the fire-engines. One L car was No. 15 and the other 56. There isn't any 56 on a roulette layout so I cut in half and bet two on 28.

One time when I was going to Saratoga a girl asked me to buy her a $5 bet on anything in any fifth race whose name began with "L." Her name is Louise; but she said that wasn't the reason. She wouldn't say what the reason was, nor why she insisted on the fifth race, nor why she insisted on a name beginning with "L." showed up in the entries for any fifth race, but ever since, when I find myself running over the entries, results and odds I also find myself searching for "L." steeds in fifth races. Then, one day in Washington a few months ago, I found four in tomorrow's entries and would have bet them all if the government had set up mutuels at convenient places around town instead of making it necessary to take a taxi way over to the department of the interior, which is the last place that I knew of in Washington where you could get any action. Maybe not even there, now, because the young woman that I knew who worked there as a clerk under Harold Ickes and handled the business of the whole department for one of the big books quite several years ago. She got so much on lose bets and so much on win bets and made as much as Ickes, himself. Nobody ever bothered her. All the best people bet in her book.

One night at a party at Georgie Holmes' house I had a headache and that gave me a hunch for a bet on a horse named April or something like that and this led to another hunch on some other, dashing charger, both long shots, which I bet $200 and asked her to bet it on Aspirin to win and paying it on the other one to win. That afternoon I left for New York by train. I got the paper at Wilmington, and what do you know? Both of my horses had won. It was weeks before I got back to Washington. My friend was terribly embarrassed. She thought I was nuts and saved my $20 for me. I know what you are thinking, but you are mistaken. She is a real nice girl.

Well, three of those "L." horses that I wasn't able to bet that day ran out of the money, and I never found out what happened to the fourth one because the track was one of those leaky-roof layouts down in West Virginia and I couldn't find the results.

Just the same, I am going to get "L." horses in the fifth when I find them going and find facilities for doing business. And I am going to bet 14 and 23 on the wheel and crank sense. Does everything have to make sense? That is what is wrong with the world. Looking for social significance in everything.

I never liked the idea of a government lottery, because they are such long shots that winning is just a miracle. I have bought lottery in Italy, Spain, Cuba, Mexico and I think Germany, and never even heard who had won. I used to buy 2.50 tickets on the Irish Sweep but quit that because they weren't sending the stubs in. How is that for an example of man's inhumanity to man? Some years ago I had a number in the printers' lottery, an old institution in the newspaper business in New York. I had to wait about a year to get a number and I played it every week for several years. I never got a whiff. Then I moved to another office and later I heard that the fellow who

THE STORY: Sgt. Eddie Engstrom's sound is wiped out in the machine and the men and themselves on the beach in their home town, Westway, a medal of honor appears and tells them that they, and he too, are dead. Eddie's dog comes up on the beach and sees his master, because dogs can see things people can't.

A SINGLE sharp bark from the dog gave warning of someone approaching. All the men looked in the direction of Duke's gaze. A bus had stopped on the highway and from it emerged a solitary passenger—a young woman. Several of the boys whistled. "I ain't seen a girl in six months. Don't crowd! Jake, for crissakes, get out from in front of me so I can look."

The young woman was heading directly for the group. As she came nearer it became obvious beauty type. She was nice but not showy. Straight, rather indefinite blond hair, worn in coiled braids on her hatless head, gray-blue eyes that had a lot of sympathy in them but no "come hither" whatever, a sweet mouth that pretended to be hard but looked as if it might quiver if you spoke harshly.

"Do you suppose she's a live girl?" asked Jake. "Sh!" warned Eddie. "She might hear you."

Joe College gave her a critical once over. "She looks as if she was alive."

"So do you," argued Jake, "but you ain't. I wonder how we tell which is which."

"I should think pinching would be a good test. But after all, what difference does it make?"

"Don't be silly. I've just got to hold a girl's hand or something."

"Evidently," observed Joe dryly, "you aren't an angel yet."

"And I don't want to be an angel, neither."

"I doubt, however, if a wishful sinners with nothing but an astral body can break any of the interesting commandments."

THE girl walked right up to the group. And into the middle of it.

"She don't see us," warned Jake, "and don't hear us neither. Damn it, she's alive."

"Good dog," said the girl patting Duke on his head. Duke liked it. She sat down beside him.

"At least we can hear her," Jake took what consolation he could from that. "Nice voice, too. Gee, she's swell."

"I think," said Eddie, "she's about the nicest girl I ever met."

"Oh, you do? Only you haven't met her, Sarge. Besides, Eddie, if I remember rightly you're the G.I. who said, 'A woman is only a woman but a cigarette is a smoke.' Or was that Kipling?"

"We ain't got nobody by the name of Kipling in this outfit. But I didn't say it neither. But I know a nice girl when I see her."

"You've been around, huh? Around what? You didn't meet many dames in the places we've been the past year. Did you get those stripes on your arm for dancing in night clubs?"

"Button it up, Windy. If I say she's wonderful that's what she is."

"Fellas," said Joe. "Gather ye round, I think old Sergeant Tough Guy has topped for this undersized radish. It's typical jug-head stuff, to wait until after you're dead before you fall in love with a girl and never be able to tell her about it."

"WHOSE doggie are you?" the girl asked Duke, the way one does of an animal, not expecting an answer.

"He's mine," declared Eddie, taking what cold comfort he could in reflected glory.

"No dice, sergeant. She didn't quite catch what you said." Joe College contemplated the newcomer in their midst with speculative attention. "You know, Eddie, on second thought I'm not sure you haven't got something in this situation. It's really a wonderful opportunity to make a proposal to a girl, without danger of uncomfortable consequences like a breach of promise suit. Go to it, sergeant. I'd like to listen to you."

The girl looked out at the calm lake. "I wonder if the water is warm enough for a swim. I'll bet you'd go with me, doggie."

Duke wagged his tail to signify that he would be glad to go along. "There's one way to find out," she said, and forthwith kicked off her shoes.

"Small feat," observed Joe with critical interest. "Ankles okay! Knees okay! Ooops!"

The girl was unfasting her garters from the tops of her stockings. "Wham!" Jake exclaimed. "May-be it ain't so bad being like we are after all."

Eddie decided to do something about it. "Fall in, you guys!"

The habit of obedience persisted. The men lined up but still looking at the center of attraction who now had dress half off over her head.

"About face!" Eddie commanded. "A dirty trick," Joe muttered. "That leaves you the only one who can get an eyeful!"

Eddie, embarrassed, nastily turned his own back. "If one of you cockeyed swivel-necks takes a peek I'll report you."

"To whom?" Joe asked. "To the top kick," Eddie stopped suddenly. "Who would he report to? About this or anything else?"

The girl calmly walked right through their line, at the place where Jake Snyder would have been standing if he were really there, and hurried down to the water's edge.

She was in a very modest bathing suit of faded blue jersey. The men laughed. "She had it on underneath all the time," Jake said.

Our prejudice against betting on races is unreasonable. It certainly is inconsistent in states which permit mutuels at the tracks.

Mere location can't affect the morality of mutual betting one way or another and I think that if we spotted machines around our towns and the state or federal government ran the business, dragging the usual percentage for the public purse, the first rush of novelty, business would soon subside into a healthy, steady trade and the effect would be good. It certainly would knock out the horsewire and hand-book rackets and spare us these perpetual hell-raising in the police departments in our big cities.

Philadelphia, Nov. 23 — (AP) — Bernie Lemonick, University of Pennsylvania guard, "always plays his best against the toughest opposition — an inspirational player with a great second effort."

That was the reaction of Penn Coach George Munger today when informed the 200-pound senior had been chosen Associated Press linesman of the week.

"Lemonick loves to play football," said Munger. "He was a standout both of offense and defense all year, but especially so against our toughest opposition — California, Army and Wisconsin."

Lemonick was largely responsible for Penn's showing against California — "probable West Coast Rose Bowl representative" — and against Army — one of the nation's top teams this year. Penn lost to California 14-7 and to Army 28-13, but in so doing grew in stature as a grid power.

Against Wisconsin last Saturday, Penn was a six-point pre-game favorite despite Wisconsin's high rating in the mid-west. With Lemonick's help, Penn won that one 20-0 and climbed to 13th spot in the AP's weekly rating poll.

Wisconsin made only 25 rushing plays in the Penn game, Lemonick made eight tackles and was in on 16 others.

Giving Lemonick a run for linesman of the week honors were Elmer Costa, North Carolina State tackle, and Bobbie Ward, Maryland guard.

The week's nominees included: Guards: Norman McNabb, Oklahoma; Tackles: Jim Weatherall, Oklahoma; W. Parsons, 6, Hope; W. H. Light, Spike, Hope; Cecil Sewell, 6, Blevins; James Spicer, 8, McCaskill; Bobby Cooper, 8, Blevins; Willie Hoover, 8, Delight; T. J. Rogers, 8, McCaskill; Virgil Tollett, 4, Nashville; R. T. 4, B. Dapels, 6, Belton.
